We light our pipes and watch the soft gray
Smoke, that drifts like dreams away;
And debts and duties, duns and wives,
Slip undiscerned from our lives:
We light our pipes.

To the Nobility: The Faithful Mustapha has returned with the Herd of Camels from the banks of Euphrates, refreshed by the exhilarating waters of the Tigris.

Therefore, every Noble of Tangier is admonished to be Present.

Let Priests of every Church and creed
For Shriners pray, with Shriners plead,
But day-dreams bright Thou dost invoke,
Allah; the Mystic Shrine.

The Recorder will be pleased to hear from those Nobles who have not paid their last assessment. Let the response be spontaneous.

Sons of the Desert: Wilt thou exchange evil for that which is good? Get ye down into Egypt, for there shall ye find what thou desireth.

"Verily I say, they therefore, who have left their families and their homes, and have cast their lot with us, we will expiate their evil deeds for them, and bring them by an easy way into gardens watered by rivers."

"Follow only that which shall be revealed unto thee;
Both the blind and the seeing shall be equal;
Therefore, consider thou shalt have no intercessor but us."

WE HAVE SAID:

THE SULTANI.

ATTESTED:

THE KATIB.
